

---

Establishing an effective internal control program for IT requires a well-defined monitoring process. This process includes the monitoring and reporting of control exceptions, results of self-assessments and third-party reviews. A key benefit of internal control monitoring is to provide assurance regarding effective and efficient operations and compliance with applicable laws and regulations.

---

Source URL: <http://gta.georgia.gov/psg/book-page/monitor-and-evaluate-internal-control>